1.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The teaching of "... a ten-fold repetition of equal colors at different positions of the target..." is not taught in the written specification.

Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term "ten-fold repetition" appears to be a vague and/or mis-descriptive term.

3.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 18-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Phillips.

With respect to claim 18 Phillips teaches a target (see figure 5, see also col. 5, lines 20-25) for calibration of digital devices, comprising a plurality of colored fields, (see fig. 5 and col. 4, line 50 – col. 5, line 25., wherein the colored fields are printed by a subtractive multicolor printing process by means of frequency modulated screening(see figures 3a-3d and the CMYK subtractive colors.

With respect to claims 19 and 24, Phillips teaches this limitation by col. 4, line 67.

Art Unit: 2626

With respect to claims 20 and 25, Phillips teaches this limitation by the print screens according to col. 6, lines 65-69 and figures 2a-2c for plural print screens.

With respect to claims 21 and 26, Phillips a ten fold repetition according to the 10 cols of colors that are shown in different hue positions.

With respect to claim 22, Phillips teaches reading a calibration picture (figure 5) into an input device (electronic scanner according to col. 6, lines 60-65) and adjusting the color values (density values according to col. 4, lines 5-10) wherein the calibration picture is a target (shown by figure 5).

With respect to claim 23, Phillips teaches manufacturing a calibration target for calibrating digital input devices (col. 6, lines 60-65) comprising the colored fields (col. 4 lines 43-45) on the calibration target according to the multi-color printing process (see col. 4, line 67) by means of frequency modulated screening(see figure 3a-3c) .
